General Armstrong addressed a large audience at Fort Street Church on Stinday evening, on the In-dian question in the United States. He showed a good knowledge of his subject and possesses sound and vigorous ideas thereon. In addition to this, the hearest were trouted to the enjoyment of hear-ing both Miss Montague and Mr. Turner, who took part in the music.

A report is on circulation among the Hawaiians that the inst higher bill is not to be signed as a sort of retaliation for the refusal to pass the $10,000,000 ban bill. This however is too good to believe. There would be a certain species of poetic justice, if the general public is to be saved by such fallings out of counsel among public enemies.

People were grinning on Saturday over their Advertisers, for it was a funny paper. On the second page it came out sharply and well in favor of the public, against those persons and their measures, so recently defeated and routed. This was so totally different from its tone of the past few months, that the charge on the third page, that the Gazarra has changed front was very comical.

The Appropriation Bill appeared in last week's supplement. The Robala Deamatic Association intend shortly to give another of their popular entertainments at Kanopini, the proceeds of which are to go towards creating a fund for the erection of a public half, which we learn is soon to be commenced.

On the first a grand ball was given to a select few, under the able leadership of C. & G., a police-man. As but few invitations were issued the pub-lic jealensiv caused an opposition show outside which called in the assistance of the police, but a compromise was effected and peace migned once more. (It looks rather disreputable for the quiet nown of Hillo.)

The pump put into the Kaika Spring by Mr. Raudsen for irrigating Kehaha Plantation has done its work well. It is capable of raising one hundred barrels a minute. All that is needed now is the stream, 24 inches wide, 5 inches deep, that now rushes from the mouth of the pipe into the fume. 29 feet above the level of the apring. Lirania stalks, old occount leaves, and such trash, have so far been used for fuel for the engine that works the pump.

rocks the pump. The wool clip at Niihau for the season is all sheared, with the exception of one or two day's work. The prevailing wet weather has prevented this last of the shearing. It is very provoking for the men who want to finish the job, but the needed three days of consecutive fair weather will come some time. The grass has been much improved by good management, and the thirty thousand sneep, more or less, on the island ought to give a profitable account of themselves to their canny owners.

Lihue and Kilauea mills are not yet through grinding. Kapaa sent off its last sugar of this year's crop last week. Strong trade winds with cloudy skies and cold squalls are good for the pastures, but came planters want the warm six and good growing weather usual in August and September. There are evidences of a long continued drouth about Keelia. Caterpilars are busy between Kapaa and Kilauea; but the young cane in the fields has not been injured by them this year to any great extent. There is no wider expanse of came field on the whole island than at Kapaa. Kilauea makes a fine show, but the old pluntation of Lihue has the advantage of years of experience in successful cultivation. Its adjunct of Hanamaulu gives every appearance of a great success, mails gives every appearance of a great success, and a large addition to Libne's already immensely big profit account. Koloa is prospering this year with the additions of hundreds of tons from came planted by outside parties. Electe and Kekaha

A curious relic has been found plowing at Kapaa It is a cylinder of stone about a foot and a half high, and ten inches in diameter with an enlarged base, and a hollow of some ten inches depth as if it had been used for a mortar. Possibly it was some old chief's ointment pot, for such seems to have been the use of similar relics now to be found have been the use of similar relics now to be found in the cabinets of our curiosity-hunters. Another curiosity recently found on the same plantation is a miniature adse, evidently formed out of an old copper bola, that may have at some time in the ages past floated ashore in a piece of a wreck. It is a possible thing that in plowing on our newer plantations similar relics may be discovered. It would be well to send such treasure trove to the national museum, for it is a notorious fact that to examine such memorials of past ages of Hawanian national life, one must go to Berlin or Paris or London. Such curiosities have not been preserved here.

Mr. Dillon, member for Tipperary, publicly confirmed from personal investigations, at the last meeting of the land league, Redpath's state-ment that the funds now held by the relief committees and the Catholic and Protestant hierarchy are sufficient for the relief of existing distresses in the countries where the potatoes are still unrips. Dillon says there is no further need of American

New Yoak, Aug. 1-The Tribune's London special members. says: The first panic about Afghanistan has sub-sided, but it has been succeeded by settled aniety as to the final results of the policy of mad adven-ture initiated by Lord Beaconsfield, of which this stastrophe is one incident. Only three days be-are the date of General Burrows' defeat, Lord Hartisgton was announced in one clouse of Com-mons t at steps had been tuken for withdrawing from afghanistan. Everyoody now agrees that withdrawal is at present impossible. Those who know India best takes the most gloomy views of the immediate future, political and financial. Every calculation is upset. The English budget next year is certain to feel the effect of the Indian disturbances, since the limit of impossition in Indisturbances, since the limit of imposition in In-dia was long since reached. Members of the Indian Council admit it to be impossible to continue as in the army of $60,000 men in Afghanis without help from the English Treasury. Council admit it to be imp
